Within each of the Mobilize-IT applications you can indicate which data elements will contain the information needed to accurately query the network to know what documents are relevant for your need. For example, if you store your CAD drawings on the network using the part number as the name of the document, the system can be told to look for the documents with part number in the name. This can apply to not only the drawings but any pictures, movies, etc.

The middleware automatically links documents and updates the references as new documents are added and older documents are changed or replaced. The middleware searches the network for the most current information and graphically displays the information to the operator.
